TEGYVUOJA ČAMPIJONAI

Kovo mėnesio pradžioj, Lietuvos Kūno Kultūros Rūmų Direktorius Augustauskas susirūpino: už dviejų mėnesių Rygoj įvyks Europos basketbolo turnyras, kurio laimėtojai pripažįstami Europos čampijonais. Iki šiol tą titulą per kelis metus laikė latviai, Lietuvos kaimynai šiaurėj. Jei Latvija gali tą titulą laimėti, kodel negali Lietuva, argumentavos su savim p. Augustauskas. Kodėl? Tiesa latviai, jei būtų lošę vien tik su tuo talentu kuri galējo surinkti savo krašte, gal ir nebūtų taip aukštai iškilę. Jie gavo pagelbos iš jaunų latvių Amerikoj. Amerikoj... Amerikoj... galvojo p. Augustauskas. Po galais juk ir lietuvių esama Amerikoj. Ir ypač lietuvių basketbolininkų ten visai gerų esama. Argi visoj Amerikoj pagarsēje Krause, Barskis, Lauraitis, Budrikas, Yanzanaitis, Klučinskas nēra lietuviai?

Jei latviai gali, gali ir lietuviai. Nutarta — padaryta.

Kūno Kultūros Rūmai siunčia Amerikos Lietuvių Sporto Komitetui Chicagoj prašymą, kad kuo greičiausiai išsiųstų Lietuvon du basketbolininku. Jei galima, sako prašymas iš Kauno, prisiųskite Ed Krause ir Petrą Barski (jie Lietuvoj pažįstami iš 1935 metų olimpinio vizito).

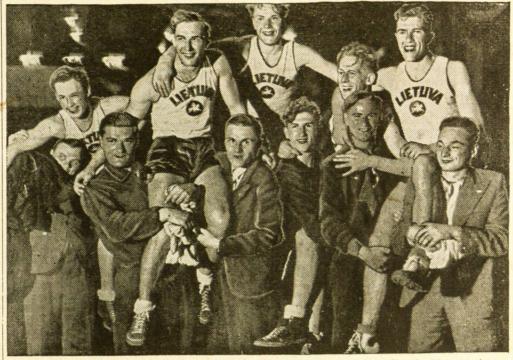

Chicagos komitetas gavęs Kauno užsakymą tuoj susisiekė su Krause bei Barskiu, bet pasirodo nei vienas jų negali važiuoti. Asmeniški reikalai neatleidžia. Ed Krause vienok rekomenduoja savo broli Pilypą, kuris iš savo pusēs sutiktų važiuoti. Gerai nutariama Pilipą pasiųsti. Bet reikia juk dar vieno.

Komitetas atsimena, kad JAU-NIMAS ką tik pabaigė labai sekmingą Chicagos lietuvių basketbolo turnyrą, sutraukusį suvirš šimto lietuvių basketbolininkų. Iš šio skaičiaus tikrai galima rasti vienas, tinkąs pasiuntimui Lietuvon. Kreipiamasi į JAUNI-MO sporto skyrių ir mūsų sporto redaktorius rekomenduoja Praną Teldžiūną. Tai vyrukas kuris JAUNIMO turnyre primetė daugiau punktu negu kuris kitas. Teldžiūnas sutinka. Skubomis jis su Phil Krause-Kraučiunu išvažiuoja, nes štai už mėnesio Rygoj jau tas turnyras įvyksta, o jiedu dar Chicagoje.

Pasiekę Kauną ir apsipažinę aplinka pradeda darba. bo daug. Laiške "JAUNIMUI" rašo, kad priimti jie karališkai, kad viskas puikiausiai, bet su basketbolu, tai riestas kriukis. Lietuvos vyrukai basketbolą girdi is teoretinės pusės gerai supranta, bet kad laikē žaidimo užsikarščiuoja, tai pameta galvas ir žaidžia praščiau negu Amerikoj mergaičių rateliai. Visa laimē, sako, kad čia radome Chicagietį žuką. Vadinas esame trys amerikiečiai, rateliui reiks bent 2 Lietuvos žaidėjų, ir kadangi dar turime penkias dienas iki išvykimo turnyran tai gal kaip

Seven other nations were represented in this contest, the other teams being in the order they finished: - Italy, France, Poland, Esthonia, Latvia, Czechoslovakia and Egypt.

Our Mother Tongue

By Vytautas Širvydas

The Lithuanian E, as we have seen, should never be pronounced like the English E in "me" or "serve" It has, at least, three different values, ortographically distinguished as: e, ē, and e, and called, respectively, short, long and nasal. It isn't easy to find exact English equivalents for the sounds these Lithuanian E's represent. We suggested to ask your elders to read some such class of words, as: gerti, gērē, gēręs, or semti, sēmē, sēmęs.

A numerous class of Lithua nian words containing the long E are the feminine nounds ending in E: baime (fear), laime (bliss, happiness), kelionė (voyage) pilnybė (fullness), and so on. Another class are the verbs whose infinitive has the ēti ending: girdēti (to hear), galēti (to be able, to have power), guleti (to lie down, to sleep), budětí (to wake, to watch), myléti (to love). Dot your E's in all such cases!

When verbs of this class are conjugated this long E goes over into many forms of the past and future tenses: aš girdējau (I heard), tu girdējai (you heard), jis girdējo (he heard), mes girdējome (we heard), jus girdējote (you heard), jie girdējo (they heard). In fact, the frequency with which the long E is found before J forces to adopt a rule: dot your E's when you find them before J. I can recall only two instances where this is not so: veja (a lawn, grassplot), and deja (alas). The future tense of the verbs under discussion runs; girdēsiu (I shall hear), girdēsi, girdēs, girdēsime, gigrdēsite, girdēs.

So now we have met with two numerous classes of Lithuanian words where certain E's are long (that is, dotted: 1) feminine nouns ending in E, and 2) verbs whose infinitive ends in ēti.

The author began these articles at the suggestion of the Editor of "JAUNIMAS", and, in a way, is hoeing a new field. Our aim was to help American Lithuanians who have found a knowledge of good Lithuanian not day journalists; actuality, "tionly helpful over here but also wish to keep abreast the cultural stream of one of the oldest na tions on earth, just recently reborn, and, therefore, full of the zip and pep of youth. Young Lithuanian America and Young Lithuania - what this combination couldn't do for the benefit and glory of our race! Young Lithuania is learning solid English over there, since this language is becoming more or less compulsory in the schools. It should be our pleasure to perfect our Lithuanian over here. A full language course takes years. But most of us, I'm sure, know something about Lithuanian. All we need is knee-action over the bumps. Therefore, send in your bumps to the Editor of "JAUNI-MAS", and these articles then can be designed more intelligently to help you.

Now for the Poet's Corner. Our translation of the famous old Lithuanian song "Kur banguoja Nemunēlis" runs:

There where flows the Nemunelis.

And šešupē hugs her shores, Stands my country, Lithuania, Which my heart ever adores. How does your's run?

Try your hand at translating this passage of modern Lithuanian: "čia minimoj knygoj autorius bene pirmas pas mus imasi giliau ir plačiau panagrinēti tas spaudos problemas, kurios yra glaudžiai susijusios su viešuoju gyvenimu ir musų laikų aktualijomis." (From a book review in 'židinys" Nr. 1, 1937).

minēti — to mention (also used in the sense "to celebrate") bene - in above passage to be translated "probably", but otherwise a translator's headache. "Bene jam darbas rūpi?" would be "You think, he worries about work?" or "Do you think work worries him? nagrinēti — to discuss; imti nagrinēti — to take up a subject. glaudus — close; glaudžiai closely.

susijes - related to, bound up with, tied up, (from "sieti" to bind, or tie).

aktualija - a word much in favor with some of our present krově" could, probably, be used just as well.

LITHUANIANA

FROM VERBA TO JUIGINES

By Vytautas F. Beliajus

A week later, the Saturday before Easter is another busy day. Starting in the wee hours of the morning, (for Holy Saturday is a short day, as the latter part of the afternoon and the night are spent in church), the Margutis (Easter eggs) made. That is a painstaking undertaking, but a very enjoyable

The whole house is like a busy market-place; one does the Easter cleaning, others prepare good food for the day that will mark the end of Lent and of herring eating.

Around the table Cousins Agota and Antose were busy preparing, through the batik process the Margutis, while my brothers Arējas and Julijonas and I were the attentive observers of their intriguing work.

Pots of dyed water, hot to the boiling point, are on the floor, while Agota ant Antose are busy applying meltin wax to the eggs ere the wax gets a chance to cool. All this is done skillfully and with great speed, and then the eggs are placed in the boiling pots of dyes, taken out and the wax wiped off. Thus, where there was wax, the dye does not take. Wax again is applied, so that other spots may be dyed in different colors. One egg sometimes requires a great stretch of time and labor, but who minds it? Easter comes only once a year.

About two or three o'clock in the afternoon, the highway passing our homestead leading to the parish church (a stretch of eight kilometers, or about five miles, from our home to church) is showing signs of an increase in traffic, especially pedestrian traffic. Everyone has a cart and horse, but it is more fun to walk to church. The maidens take great delight in lifting their skirts up to the knees, so that the underwear may be seen, and this indeed is a good reason to want to walk to church, for how else could their pure white linen and laced underskirts be appreciated, and the exquisiteness of their gorgeous headkerchiefs? Certainly not when riding in carts!

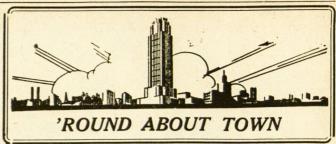

The folks stay in church all night. Confessions are popular on Easter Eve and Communions are taken on Easter morn, and before we children have a chance to rise "Teta" (Auntie) Skrupskas is already at our house with colorful Easter eggs, which, with out even considering for a moment the hard work required to conceive such beautiful eggs, are broken and eaten.

The three days of Easter are very enjoyable, but now, as this is written, we all await St. George's Day (April 23).

St. George, the warrior saint who killed the wicked dragon, and St. Anna (Sv. Ona, on July 26), who was the mother of the Virgin, somehow won a place of great affection in one hearts of the Lithuanians, and although all saints are given their due honors in certain parishes ,yet St. Anna and St. George are given special ovations.

There seems to be a current belief that no matter when the spring solstice may fall or Easter may be, spring does not start until St. George's day. It is on that day that the first planting of any kind, despite previous warm days, is done.

Commentaries

By E. J. K.

The picnic season is again upon us. From now until next October almost the entire Lithuanian population of Chicago will drive, ride, or walk to the outskirts of Chicago to a rough total of about 120 picnics. The Lithuanian may spoil his digestion by eating tasty but quite bad food; he may pay many dimes to get occasionally drunk on occasionally good beer and liquor; he may raise havoc with his high blood-pressure by doing what he calls dancing to occasionally very bad music; he may spend all his money on tickets and wheels trying to win things he could never possibly use but in spite of all this, he has one grand and glorious time, and the following Sunday is again raring to go.

It is a most interesting trait of our nationality - this love of picnicking. It reveals a deep-seated gregariousness - the desire for sociability, for feasting, drinking, singing, playing, dancing and in general making whooppee. It is a fairly good sign. It reveals an inherent love of nature and the outdoors. It reveals a generous nature - because apparently more money is raised by picnics for various good, bad and mediocre causes than through any other medium.

It is a harmless enough diversion for some people - who must work and sweat and live in a hot, grimy, dusty city throughout the week. They earn the chance to occasionally work and sweat on a dance.

"Thou art like health, 0 my birth-land Lithuania! How much we should prize thee He only can know who has lost thee.

It must seem strange for a reader, of a nationality different from our own, to come across the above lines in "The Lighthouse Keeper of Aspinwall", by the great Polish writer, Henryk Sienkiewicz. All the more so because the story is deeply Polish in spirit. What might be more surprising is the fact that the lines are a quotation from a poem by Mickiewicz, who is rightfully considered by the Poles to be one of the world's greatest poets. To the Lithuanian reader the apparent paradox is not so puzzling, when he or she remembers that Sienkiewicz, though a Pole, was born in Lithuania, and Mickiewicz was of Lithuanian birth, though of Polish upbring-

We might make the same observation here in regard to the Lithuanian nationality of Mickiewicz, that we once made anent the Lithuanian birth of Kosciuszko. It is unfortunate that our admiration of the character and genius of these two great figures and our veneration of their memories consist mainly in occasional, vague claims concerning their Lithuanian birth and weak protests against the Poles for claiming them as their own. We have only ourselves to blame if the world accepts, without the slightest hesitation, both Kosciuszko and Mickiewicz as Poles.

Perhaps one of the most colossal strategige blunders in history

"TO TODAY'S LITHUANIAN YOUNGSTERS"

If I could convey a word of encouragement to our young Lith. boys and girls everywhere, it would be this: That there are always great places open for great men and women; that there are always good places open for good men and women; that there are always honors and distinctions for those qualified to wear them; that America, as never before, is the land of opportunity and invitation. But now as never before, the qualities of industry, of patient devotion, of moral keenness of vision are necessary. One cannot possess the worthy things of life without paying the price for them, and the price of a worthy place in human society is a highly developed character.

Mrs. M. J. Colney.

- at least inso far as it concerns our nation — was Russia's attempt to delithuanianize our fathers and forefathers by force. The Czar, or whoever it was that sired that particular Frankenstein, has earned the undying gratitude of the Lithuanian nation. It is due primarily to him that our fatherland to-day is independent, that we are deeply conscious of our nationality and that we, as a nation, are quickly catching up with the rest of the world in every branch of civilization and the arts.

We Lithuanians are a stubborn, opinionated people. We can be bribed, lured, inveigled, wheed led, duped or deceived into doing or not doing something we should not or should do. But we bristle up at a show of force. And so our fathers and forefathers bristled up when the Russian govern ment forbade them to read, write and talk the Lithuanian language. At the rate we were then being assimilated into other nationalities, it would have been only a matter of several decades before our national identity would have been totally submerged. Our language and national spirit were disintegrating at an alarming rate, and the great majority of Lithuanians themselves was vastly indifferent to its impending doom. But when the government outlawed the Lithuanian language and Lithuanianism, the collective response was one stubborn, grim, unspoken "Oh, yeah?" Then, across the border, presses started clattering; contraband newspapers. books and pamphlets appeared as if by magic, distributed through the astonishingly well-organized secret carrier system; people began to read and study avidly; secret societies were organized; secret meetings were held, urging the people, not so much to oppose force with force, as to resist the edict with an enlightened Lithuanianism, with a reborn national spirit. It was one vast patriotic propaganda system. working smoothly and simultaneously.

When the war came, our nation was ready to strike out for itself, to fight for and demand national independence — because it had been preparing for almost fifty years. It is only reasonable to suppose that, had it not been for this governmental edit which pricked our dying nation into a patriotic fervor, we would not have been able to grasp the opportunity the War offered, and,

More than 30 girls surprised ANN PUZAUSKIS with a bridal shower at Mrs. Monica Peters' home on Wednesday, May 12th. Her associates presented her with many beautiful gifts as a lasting remembrance of the occasion.

AN ORIGINAL NOVELTY FOR A WEDDING SHOWER PARTY

Since the months of May and June are full of romance, the bri dal showers are going in full swing. I have made an original novelty for a shower which I think all the girls and women whom are planning to make a wedding shower for their friend will surely like the following new novelty.

First of all visit the 5 and 10 cent store and get the articles that are written in parenthasis. Then wrap them in white tissue paper and attach a white ribbon with a small correspondence card bearing these words:

- 1. "To scrub away the dust and grime, Look for the face that tells the time". (Clock)
- 2. "To make you cool when the sun is hot, Lift the lid from the coffee pot". (Talcum powder)
- "To take the shine right off your nose, Look back of something colored rose". (Powder)
- 4. "To make your lips a ruby hue. Look under something colored blue".
- 5. "The blushing bride will hide her face. Within the fragile piece of lace." (Lace Hanky)

(Lipstick)

- 6. "You'll need this little whisk of hay, To brush the grains of rice away".

Speaking of surprises - a real old timer Lithuanian professional baseball player pulled into town this A. M. with a new patent which registers every time a point is scored on the basketball floor. Mr. J. Juknevich who played with various minor league baseball teams and umpired games for many years was known as "Red Uke", probably the only Lithuanian Redhead of prominen ce ever to come to our attention.

Uke's home town is Westville, Illinois, but at present he operates a Motor Freight line between Louisville, Ky., and Chicago.

The JAUNIMAS camera man and sports reporter is still out gunning for the big league professional stars, (Lithuanians of course) Johnny Dikshot of the Pittsburgh Pirates, J. Malinousky of Brooklyn Dodgers and Johnny Broaca of the New York Yankees. Their pictures and biographies will appear in JAUNIMAS

The selection of the Midwest All-Star American Lithuanian Team is coming along fine. In a short time all seven states will have their stars submitted and you will then be able to find in JAUNIMAS the pictures and biographies of the players who will meet the European Champs.

The American - Lithuanian Sports Committee is planning to make the Track and Field Day at the Chicago University Stadium one of the main attractions of the summers athletic program. Yet no Chairman has been selected for this affair

Among other Sport events this summer, the K of L Chicago District is planning another Softball Tournament for July 5th at the Annual K of L Day Celebration at Vytautas Grove in Chicago. Visitors from various cities are planning to participate in the games. Omaha Nebraska is coming with about 25 of their members, amongst which a very good soft ball team will show the Chicagoans how it's done out where the west begins. Sioux City Iowa and Dayton Ohio are also planing to come for this big day.

Judge Zuris, whose basketball team received more publicity than any other Lithuanian team thus far, is planning to back a softball team in the JAUNIMAS league which begins to play in June. While his Star Basketball Players were from Cicero, his Softballers will all be from Bridgeport.

The biggest farce of the year, was the featuring of a picture on the front page of one of our Lithuanian daily papers, which showed Joe Zukas with a tennis racket and dressed in Tennis Shorts under a caption, "Joe Zuas wins European Basketball championship".

The truth of the matter is that ttee.

JAUNIMAS SOFTBALL MEETING MAY 27th

League Will Begin To Coach All Stars Games First Week Of June

A meeting for the purpose of drawing up a schedule and deciding playing rules will be held at JAUNIMAS office at 2201 West Cermak Rd. on Thursday Eve, May 27th at 8:30 P. M. All managers, captains or team representatives should be present at this final meeting.

The JAUNIMAS Chicago Lithuanian League will begin its schedule during the first week of June. There will be two divisions, a sixteen inch division and a fourteen inch division. Only six teams will be permitted in each division which means that the first 6 entrees will only be accepted, therefore it is important to get your entries in now.

Baltrunas 6 points Zukas 3 points

J. Zukas was hurt in this game and taken out of game.

3rd game Lithuania defeated Egypt 21 to 7. Score at half 8 to 3 favor Lithuania .

Finals: Lithuania defeated Italy 24 to 23.

NOTE. According to the system used in this tourney the eight teams were split up in 2 brackets, a double elimination system was used, whereas a team losing in the 1st round is merely placed into the second bracket and continues against teams of that bracket until the winners of the two brackets play it out for the championship as in Italys case, Lithuania defeated Italy in the first round and Italy after defeating all teams in bracket No. 2 met Lithuania again in the

CHAMPIONS TO PLAY AT CHICAGO JULY 16th

On May the 7th at Riga, Latvia, eight nations sent their best teams to compete for the European championship title and when the smoke cleared, Lithuania was found wearing the crown by virtue of a 24 to 23 decision over Italy in the finals.

The other nations participating in the tournament were France, Poland, Estonia, Latvia, Czechoslovakia, and Egypt, finishing in that order.

Three of Lithuania's players are former Chicagoans, namely: Frank Talziunas, Felix Krauciunas (Krause) and Joe Zukas.

The Lithuanian roster included 13 other Lithuanian players from which the team that will visit U.S. is being selected. The three above mentioned Chicagoans will not compete against the Americans but will only act as coaches and managers.

The game here at Chicago will be held at the Cicero Stadium. 19th Street and 52nd Avenue in Cicero, Illinois on July 16th.

In the preliminary game, the boys who made up the American -Lithuanian team in Lithuania in 1935 and who are now playing as our Chicago Semi-Pro team under the name of Barskis All-Stars, will probably meet the best Lithuanian Amateur players, the Judge Zuris All-Stars, champions of the JAUNIMAS league.

JAUNIMAS REVELS AT TABOR FARM

Last Sunday found a merry group of JAUNIMAS followers at Tabor Farm, enjoying the first outdoor outing of the season. Besides the usual hospitable atmosphere of the famed Southern Michigan resort, the cherry blossoms were the main attraction of the day.

Springtime made a colorful beginning in the orchard district of Michigan and many who came there for the first time realized the appropriateness of name of the neighboring town - Sodus. It was fun to roam among the acres of blossoms while colors and many varieties vied for admiration The golf course, surrounded by this wave of flowing color, was the most popular place on the farm and many a golfer hesitated twixt putt and drive to gaze upon the scene they drove 113 miles to witness.

LONG LIFE IN LITHUANIA

A 112 year old Lithuanian of Kaunas was recently headlined in a Sunday issue of Robert L. Ripley's "Believe It or Not". It was stated that this centenarian works on his farm daily, sometimes with the plow, and possesses the health and vitality of a person 50 years his junior.

Evidently Mr. Riply took a fleeting glimpse of Lithuania for had he stayed longer he could have capitalized on the fact that many more centenarians do this same thing every day. To one who has spent some time in this country, unusual long life span of the natives is not out of the ordinary. On the contrary, it is quite common. A stroll through the country provinces would reveal that every second home contains residents who are, 80 and 100 years of age.

The secret of this remarkable endurance is plain-Lithuanians. as a rule, are people of the soil, engaged in agricultural pursuits, and this in turn tends to put their work out-of-doors among clean, healthy surroundings.

Centuries of life in the open fields of Lithuania explains the remarkable health and long age of European Lithuanians.

The recent trip to Tabor Farm by JAUNIMAS proved rather instructive. Indiana is the most unlawful state in the country, we found. EX - CHICAOGANITE

Dear Editor: -

Your publication revives my memory and brings me in contact with many of my former friends, acquaintances and places of interest. I attended the St. Casimir Academy for 9 years and so Chicago is almost like a second home to me.

If you have any extra old copies of JAUNIMAS, kindly forward them to me and I will be more than glad to distribute them to my friends and their friends. It might be an incentive towards more subscriptions for your paper. You have already done such a noble work that it seems only fair to boost it along in the hope that still more Lithuanians should know more about each other.

The stately dahlia is named after this patron saint, and in Lithuania they bear the appellation "Jurginis". On that day the dahlia bulbs are brought out of the cellar and planted.

I had a great love for flowers, as have all Lithuaninas, and from beneath my bedroom window many flower beds extended. Teta Skrupskas had a very large garden with many varieties of flowers, the envy of the villagers. Early in the morning of St. George's day, spade in hand, I was at her door, with the greeting! "Tegu buna pagerbintas vardas Jesaus Kristo" ("Glory be to the name of Christ") - a customary greeting when entering a Catholic home — and to the garden we go, to work very diligently. In return, after telling aunt that she had too many of this or that variety, somehow the surplus went to my own gar-

Because of St. George, I too was fond of the stately dahlia, and I had a collection of many hues of dahlias and peonies carmine, red, heliotrope, almost black dahlias, and white and cream peonies. When done with the planting of all flowers, a spe cial set of Tieve Musu and Sveika Maria's (Our Father and Hail Mary's) were said with the intention that St. George should bless the garden with a profusion of bloom.

Each and everyone is invited to attend this gala affair. DO NOT FORGET!! The date is JUNE 5th at the VIKING SOUTH SIDE TEMPLE.

The various metropolitan news papers and magazines have in recent weeks unwittingly given more than their usual share of publicity to our nationality... e. g. the winning of the European championship by Lithuania; Ripley's Believe-It-or-Not cartoon about the 117 year old Lithuanian farmer who became a father at 102; a page of beautiful rotogravure pictures of Lithuanian scenes; the story and pictures of the Lith lumberjeck in Oregon, Jack Valulis, who shaves himself with his axe; and the sit-up-and-take-notice hitting and fielding of Johnny Dickshot, Waukegan's gift to the Pirates... the bourgoisie hereabouts are beginning to be impressed.

JAUNIMAS' QUESTIONAIRE

Question: Do you approve of Lithuanians inter-marrying with other nationalities?

Bernice Kasilauskas, Chicago, Ill. I would not want to marry any other. Besides, the future would be much easier with a Lithuanian.

Sophie Paulis, Chicago, Ill.

No - emphatically no! In the inter-marriages I have seen there is no harmony. I think we should stick together. There are plenty if nice Lith. fellows around and you don't have to go looking for false gods.

Peter Bložis, Cicero, Ill. No - unpatriotic!

Harriet Lukas, Chicago, Ill.

I think there really should be no serious objections to Liths inter-marrying with other nationalities. If both parties are positive of their religon, character, and if disposition corresponds, difference of nationality should not interfere.

Stanley V. Rakauskas, Chicago,

It all depends on the individuals involved.

Johnny Labzentis, Chicago, Ill.

Yes, providing the two people marry within their religious and, too, for love and companionship, Also provided they teach their own native tongue.

Frank J. Hill, M. D. Waterbury, Conn.

My answer to question on "Inter-marrying" is YES.

1. Intermarriage aids in assimilation and Americanization.

2. Could be a nationalizing welcome the "outsider" to Lithuanian activities instead of doing everything possible to discourage their support of Lithuanian activities, thereby also often causing the loss on a good worker and the Lithuanian spouse.

3. Through intermarriage in many cases contacts with influent ial persons in business, professions or politics are made possible, which otherwise would at times be impossible.

4. According to the teachings of "Eugenics" fewer degenerates exist in communities where intermarriage freely exists.

5. Intermarrying brings about an exchange of Culture, thereby increasing Culture in general.

6. Intermarrying brings about more Civic pride, better Hygiene, and better health. From the book 'Approach to Foreign-born" page 53, "Towns whooly made up of immigrants are often unsightly and nasty".

7. Intermarrying brings about a better international understanding.

RADIO TANTRUMS

What the air lanes need is a good cleaning up. Long after amateur hours threw away their gongs and cuckoo birds because of killing the duds before they blew off by auditioning the amateurs before allowing them to be agent if our older people would heard on the air, Chicago's "Vilnis" programs emanate some thing that is worse than the worst of the amateur programs. Whoever that alto is, she shouldn't sing half way through the song together with the soprano, before catching her own alto part. If it was one difficult song it would be pardonable, but number after number it's the same thing. If the Vilnis crowd goes for that sort or singing, their taste runs mighty near the gut-

In spite of many dire predictions as to the longevity of Paul šaltimieras' radio programs, Paul pulled a fast one by adding a third, Friday evenings, 7 P. M., from the same Cicero station. And then too, Paul has lost some of his original saccharine - now he sounds like a man announcing for his bread and butter; which is as it should be.

Has anybody noticed the feud between Margutis and the Lithua nian Funeral Directors Association? Margutis omits the funeral director's name and phone after reading the death notice, and offers 20% off to those who will bring their death notices in on the cash and carry business (minus undertaker). Sad as it may seem, the number of death notices on Margutis' nightly hour has decreased considerably? Why?
